DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-5 and 9 are under consideration in this application.

Claims 6-8 are held withdrawn from consideration as being drawn to nonelected subject matter 37 CFR 1.142(b).

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of Group I in the reply filed on March 24, 2006 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-5 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) and/or (e) as being anticipated by Lee et al. (US 6,699,892).

Lee et al. teach the compound by structural formula (note column 3, lines 20-34) which embraces the claimed isomer. Further, Lee et al. teach that instant salt is water soluble. Hence, the claimed isomer and its hydrates are deemed to be anticipated therefrom.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 1625

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-5 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the combined teachings of Lee et al. in view of Ettema et al. (US 6,828,339), Foster (US 6,333,342) and Campbell et al. (US 4,572,909).

Lee et al. teach the compound by structural formula having the same use which embraces the claimed isomer. Note example 1 therein. Foster and Campebell et al. teach that amlodipine have a chiral center at C4 in the dihydropyridine ring, and thus can exist as optical isomers.

Art Unit: 1625

Note, for example, column 2, lines 5-25 of Foster or the bridging paragraph of columns 1-2 of Campbell et al. Further, Ettema et al. teach that analogous salts of amlodipine are known to exist as anhydrides or hydrates. Hence, the claimed particular isomer as well as its relative selectivity of properties vis-à-vis the racemate are suggested by the references. It would appear obvious to one skilled in the art in view of the asymmetric carbon atom that compounds of this structure would be a racemate composed of equal amounts of optically active antipodes and that resolution of the resolution can be done using conventional methods.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-5 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 1-5 and 9 contains the trade name amlopidine. Where a trademark or trade name is used in a claim as a limitation to identify or describe a particular material or product, the claim does not comply with the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph. See Ex parte Simpson, 218 USPQ 1020 (Bd. App. 1982). The claim scope is uncertain since the trade name cannot be used properly to identify any particular material or product. A trade name is used to identify a source of goods, and not the goods themselves. Thus, a trade name does not identify or describe the goods associated with the trademark or trade name. In the present case, the trade name is used to identify/describe a compound having a specified chemical structure and, accordingly, the identification/description is indefinite. Only the IUPAC name is the proper identification of chemical compounds.

Claims 2-5 lack antecedent basis for the claimed limitations.

Conclusion

No claim is allowed.
